President at the Park.
Special to GAZETTE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—The President and Mrs. Harrison and party, accompanied by Mayor Satterton and members of the Reception Committee, left the Palace Hotel this morning in carriages for a drive to Golden Gate Park. It had also been arranged that a review of school children should take place on Van Ness Avenue, and as the day bright and clear they gathered in full force, dressed in their best, many bearing flowers or small American flags. The children were with their parents or friends and extended for fourteen blocks in length. As the carriages containing the party passed between the lines they were greeted with cheers from hundreds of small throats and the air was filled with flying bouquets and waving flags. It was estimated there were fully thirty thousand people on the avenue. Some time was spent by the President in reviewing the long lines of children, but the carriages were eventually turned in the direction of the Golden Gate Park. Postmaster-General Wannamaker left the party at Van Ness Avenue and returned to inspect the postoffice and the proposed site for the new building. At the park, which was well filled with people, many of whom had come from across the bay, the President was received with cheers and waving handkerchiefs, to which the President responded by bowing. A stop was made at the Conservatory, where the Park Commissioners pointed out to Mrs. Harrison and other interested members the most noteworthy exhibits. Other points of interest in the park were also visited, after which the Presidential party proceeded to the residence of Adolph Sutro at Sutter Heights, overlooking the Pacific Ocean, where they were to lunch.

President's Sister Recovered.
By Associated Press.]

CINCINNATI, April 27.—A telephone message from Cleveland, Ohio, at 9 o'clock this morning gave the cheering information that Mrs. Eaton, sister of President Harrison, rested fairly well last night and that her physician, Dr. Hughes, while saying she is in a critical condition, thinks her symptoms much more favorable, with strong hopes for her recovery. It is the physician's opinion that she may safely be removed to-day to her own home. She is entirely conscious and all her friends are much cheered by her appearance that there is prospect of her recovery. Mrs. Eaton resides at North Bend, but was returning from church at Cleveland, Ohio, when Miss Anna Moore of Chicago, with the harness broke and the horse was forced down the hill. Mrs. Eaton was thrown out striking on her head, while Miss Moore had a shoulder dislocated.

President's Program.
Special to the GAZETTE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—On receipt of a dispatch from Cincinnati this morning conveying intelligence of improvement in the condition of Mrs. Eaton, sister of President Harrison, it was announced on behalf of the President that the program of entertainment arranged for to-day and the remainder of the week would be observed unless other and less favorable news of Mrs. Eaton's condition should be received.

Kentucky Storm.
By Associated Press.]

BEDA (Ky.), April 27.—A terrific storm passed over this vicinity Saturday night doing great damage. The dwelling of Mathew Powers seven miles from here was demolished and two children fatally injured.

New York Stocks.
By Associated Press.]

NEW YORK, April 27.—Money is easy at three and a half. Stocks at noon were comparatively quiet and barely steady at some concessions from the best prices. Fours, coupon, twenty-one.

A Lottery Victory.

NEW ORLEANS, April 27.—At the last session of the Legislature, John A. Morris and associates made application for a renewal of the Louisiana State Lottery charter for twenty-five years, offering to pay the State more than $1,000,000 per annum for the privilege. A bill embodying the requisite amendments was adopted by a two-thirds vote of the Legislature, and by courtesy a copy of the Act was sent to Governor Nichols, who vetoed it, although friends of the measure argued that he had no right to do so under the constitution. The Secretary of State having refused to promulgate the Act, Morris and his company applied for a mandamus compelling him to promulgate the proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on by the people at the next general election. The District Court to-day rendered a decision in favor of the lottery company. Judge Watkins reading the opinion as the organ of the court; Chief Bernadette and Associate Justice McEnery concurring, each read opinions while Associate Justice Fennor and Breaux read dissenting opinions.

Stock Yard Fight.

CHICAGO, April 27.—A fight against the yardage charged on the cattle of the Union Stock Yards Company by Nelson Morris, in behalf of himself, Armour & Co., and Swift & Co. began this morning. The first lot of cattle consigned to the private yards built by Morris arrived this morning. In order to reach the yards it was necessary for the cars to be run over tracks owned and operated by the stock yards company. Morris was advised that he could compel the company to allow him to use their tracks by the payment of reasonable tolls. The company, however, refused to allow their use, spiking the switches and putting a guard over them. Morris will appeal to the courts for an order compelling the stock yards company to transport his cattle to the yards. Later in the day the stock yards company won at least a temporary victory, as the cattle needed food and water, and Morris was forced to permit their unloading in the regular yards.

Strike Ended in Detroit.

DETROIT, April 27.—The result of the meeting of the Board of Arbitration appointed to settle the differences between the city railway company and its employees was a complete victory for the latter, the company promising to take back all the strikers and give them employment during good behavior. Hereafter all grievances will be arbitrated. To-day about 200 employees of the Michigan Car Works reported for work, but the remainder of the 2,000 men drove them away. The strikers presented a demand for an advance of ten per cent in wages. The company promised a reply this afternoon.

A Doctor Told of.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—Dr. Samuel H. Hill was arrested by Detective Rogers to-day on a charge of the murder of Ida Shaddock, the Colusa girl who died on the 31st of March, on the train at Benicia. Hill admitted that he had delivered her, while she was at his house, of a still-born child.

Deep Creek Mines.

The Salt Lake Tribune of Friday says: F. J. Kearney is in from Willow Springs, Deep Creek country, and says that the country is filling up with people very fast the past few days. They are coming so fast as to make things look very much more lively than heretofore. The road is lined with wagons headed that way, all along the route. The last lot of Buckhorn ore brought in from Dugway by Mr. Gilson, 14,662 pounds, was purchased by Hannan at $22.65 per ton net, making $1,700 for the lot.

Rejoicing Poor Health.

The Austin Revue says: "We are informed that M. J. Farrell, formerly of Austin, has been enjoying very poor health for some time past and is at present at Los Gatos, Cal., recuperating." Mike always was a wag and much given to persiflage, but his intimate friends never suspected that he enjoyed poor health.

Gold Brick Swindle.

The Salt Lake Tribune of Friday says: Sheriff Burt and Marshal Young returned from Ogden yesterday, having abandoned their search for Alvin, the confidence man who so cleverly swindled George C. Whitmore, the Nephi banker, at Provo, Tuesday, out of $6,000.

GRANT'S MONUMENT.

Ground Broken With Great Ceremony.

AT RIVERSIDE PARK NEW YORK.

The Rebels in Chili Still

President Balmaceda in Fear of Poison.

Ground Broken for Grant's Monument.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Amidst the plaudits of thousands of citizens, the blare of trumpets, beating of drums, booming of cannon, melody of children's voices and eloquence of orators, the ground was broken to-day for the monument which is to be raised at the tomb, at Riverside park, where rests all that is mortal of General Grant.

Members of Alexander Hamilton Post, G. A. R., and other societies participated, and the Yantic, a United States steamer, anchored near by in the Hudson river, fired a salute of twenty-one guns.

Before the regular ceremonies commenced, three hundred children from the Sheltering Arms Institution and a drum and pipe corps, playing "America," marched past the tomb with flags drooping. Each child carried a bouquet of forget-me-nots, which were cast upon the tomb.

The Marine Band played an overture, after which Rev. Dr. Clark Wright, Chaplain of Department Commander Freeman's staff, offered a prayer and the chorus sang the "Star Spangled Banner."

Commander Freeman presided; he introduced General Horace Porter.

Porter said: "Sixty-nine years ago to-day there was issued into the world a being who was destined to stand prominent in the history of his country, and whose fame was to reach into the uttermost parts. Each conspicuous character of history has risen to prominence by gradual advances, but Ulysses S. Grant came before the people with a sudden bound. Almost the first sight caught of him was the blaze of his camp-fires and flashes of his guns those wintry days and nights in front of Donelson. From that time until the crowning triumph at Appomattox he was a leader whose name was a harbinger of victory. From the final sheathing of his sword till his ashes were laid at rest in yonder tomb, he was chief of the Republic and the great central figure of the world."

General Porter then in an epigrammatic way contrasted the obscurity of Grant's early life with his fame of later years. He touched upon the salient features of his character as a soldier and chief magistrate and sketched the prominent acts of his Presidential career. The speaker said that "his unbounded generosity to friends, his magnanimity to foes will be remembered as long as his many qualities. He never tired of giving unstinted praise to worthy subordinates nor to the work that they did. Like chief artists who weave goblin tapestries, he was content to work behind the cloth, letting those in front appear to be the principal contributors to the beauty of the fabrics." The orator said that "one work which more characterized General Grant than any other was loyalty; loyalty to his country, to his friends, to God. For this reason chiefly men were loyal to him. He was created for great emergencies. In ordinary matters he was an ordinary man; in momentous affairs he towered as a giant." The speaker closed by saying: "No effort of human hands can add a single laurel to his brow; all honors earth can give have been bestowed upon him, but people whom he served have resolved to fashion a tomb worthy of his ashes and rear in monument rock, a fitting tribute to his fame."

The chorus sang "America," when Commander Freeman arose to initiate the particular ceremony of the day of breaking ground for the monument. The spade which he used was a fine specimen of American handicraft, bearing an inscription giving the chief events in General Grant's career. Before turning up the sod, Commander Freeman said: "We gather to-day, not simply as representatives of hundreds of thousands of living and dead whom he led to victory, but of the entire nation, men who wore the grey as well as men who wore the blue. Now, in the presence of Almighty God and these witnesses, we, as representatives of the Grand Army of the Republic, break sod preparatory to laying the foundation of the monument which shall stand as a slight expression of the love of this nation for its great chieftain and shall tell to all the world that the United States of America does not forget her heroic dead."

At the close of his remarks, Commander Freeman took the spade in his hands and with it tossed up the earth. This ended the ceremonies and the crowd dispersed.

American Tract Society.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The annual Washington meeting of the American Tract Society was held last night. Ex-Judge Wm. Strong, President of the society, presided, and addresses were made by Justice David D. Brewer of the Supreme Court and Rev. Wm. Ayre, Secretary of the society. The report of the secretary showed the receipts for the year from all sources to be $305,000. The society has issued in the sixty-six years of its existence 7,583 distinct publications in this country and 4,593 in foreign countries. The tract society has just completed fifty years of colporteur work. It is estimated there are to-day in the United States at least 20,000,000 of people not reached by the existing organized denominational agencies. It is among these outside masses of people that the American Tract Society is laboring; in addition to this general work, it does special work in the army and navy and among seamen, and the progress of its work in foreign fields has amounted, in its history, to more than $7,000,000.

A Missouri Bank Closed.

By Associated Press.]

MONTGOMERY CITY (Mo.), April 27.—The Farmers' and Traders' Bank has closed, owing to uncertainty as to its condition. Captain Covington, the cashier, has disappeared and people are at a loss to know whether he is responsible for the mysterious shortage of $9,300 in the bank accounts or whether the loss of the money so preyed upon him that it unbalanced his mind. The money is thought to have been taken by burglars, who entered the bank in the absence of the cashier.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—In the Supreme Court to-day Chief Justice Fuller directed the indictment to be quashed in the case of John C. Ball and Robert Brownell, convicted in the United States Circuit Court for the Eastern District of Texas of the murder of William T. Box. It is supposed the murder was committed in Indian Territory, but neither the time nor place of killing is set out in the indictment, and the Court holds it was therefore defective. An effort is in order to set the prisoners free.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION

A Time of Trial.

The change in Nevada's financial system places the officers who comprise the State Board of Equalization in a very important and, at the same time, delicate position. Whether they were consulted or not in the formation of the Board, the entire responsibility has been placed upon their shoulders, and their action will have much to do with the prosperity of not only their political party, but of the State itself. In her present condition, Nevada is not very well fixed for a financial disturbance, and such a misfortune can only be avoided by a wise and moderate course. The GAZETTE was violently opposed to the passage of the bill creating such a Board, but now that it is a law, we hope to see it honestly, fearlessly and fairly enforced.

To provoke resistance upon the part of any class of taxpayers at this time would be most unwise. The reduction of the State rate must necessitate some advance in apportionments, and it may be that there are individual assessments which should be raised, but any indiscriminate call for property owners to appear before the Board, or any such valuation of railroad properties as would work a hardship would put the State in a very embarrassing plight. While we want to see every railroad within our borders bear their just burden of taxation, any act that would be unjust to that class of property would injure the State in no small degree. The Board, however, is composed of hard-headed, sensible and patriotic men and the State looks to them for conscientious, well-considered action.

Now that the Australian ballot system has become a law in this State, candidates will have to rely on stump speakers and the newspapers to get themselves properly before the people. Heretofore the man with money to spend generally knocked the persimmon. It is not our province to discuss the methods employed by him in spending it, but he generally put it where he thought it would do the most good in pulling him into office. But by the passage of the law in question the gates of corruption have been pretty effectually closed, and no man without real merit has any business hunting for office now. The man who aspires to office in the future will have to rely almost exclusively upon the newspapers and public speakers to get himself properly before the people. His valiant services to his country will have to be discussed pro and con through the columns of the press, and if they are not such as to entitle him to the confidence and good will of the masses his banner will have to go down under the criticisms he will be subject to. The work that heretofore has been done by the county and State central committees will have to, in a measure, fall into other hands. There will be no use for a "corruption fund," and the successful ones will be just as happy after the battles have been fought without it.

THE GAZETTE gives the cattlemen of Nevada this pointer: Form a beef trust. There are sugar trusts, coal oil trusts, flour trusts, iron and steel trusts, and, in fact, most everything we consume is doled out to us by the hand of a trust, and why should Nevada beef go begging when a trust would force coast buyers to pay a living price for the article? What is sauce for the goose should be sauce for the gander. If the beef producers of this State would combine they would be an important factor in regulating the price of cattle, and why not take advantage of it? It would put a stop to San Francisco butchers coming up here every year and putting a price on Nevada's chief product and by misrepresentation coerce feeders to sell at ruinous prices. If taken in time and intelligently managed, cattlemen will realize fully one cent per pound more for their products than can be secured in any other way. Our advice to Nevada cattlemen is to get in, form a trust and get some of the pie as it is being passed around. If we must pay trust prices for everything we consume, why not get trust prices for what we have to sell?

WELL-KNOWN SAYINGS.

The Origin of Some Phrases That Have Become Proverbial.

It will be found on examination that most sayings may be traced back to a literary origin, says the New York Sun. What more common, popular maxim is there than that "Procrastination is the thief of time"? Yet it is the first line of that most deadly dull of books, Young's "Night Thoughts." Crowds of people have been befuddled in imagining that "The Lord tempests the wind to the shorn lamb" is a biblical saying, yet it is only as old as Sterne's "Sentimental Journey." Everybody knows about the man who read "Hamlet" at an advanced age, and said he would have liked it if it had not been so full of "chestnuts." The fact is that a great part of it has become proverbial, and so common property. We no longer have to read the play to imbibe a lot of its philosophy, for it is floating in the air about us.

On the other hand, some sayings undoubtedly have a popular origin. A splendid example of the evolution of one occurs in the old testament, in the history of Saul. When the future first king of Israel appeared among the prophets the people were astonished. He had been of a rather frivolous disposition. Some man in the crowd exclaimed: "Is Saul also among the prophets?" The expression caught on, and it has been a familiar saying ever since.

We have among ourselves a very good example of the same sort in the expression: "A good enough Morgan till after election."

A difficulty here meets us. How is it that among eastern illiterate nations proverbs of the most perfect form and literary finish are found? The same state of affairs occurs in Spain. The explanation lies in the fact that in both cases the people are able to get at literature vicariously. In Persia and the east generally the professional story-teller comes to a village. In the evening the inhabitants sit around the tent and he tells them tales, many of them thousands of years old and full of the condensed wisdom of ages.

In Spain the muleter who wanders about the country fills exactly the same position and to the literature popularized by him must be largely attributed the richness of Spanish in proverbs.

Tony Weller was the proverb-spinner of the Pickwick crowd. He got his faculty in the very same way that the Spanish muleter and the Persian story-teller got theirs. He met a great many people in his trips on the coach and his sayings got sharpness and clearness of outline with every fresh repetition. No doubt many of them were retailed by countless appreciative hearers.

In the same way, the Jarvey in the south of Ireland is by nature a manufacturer of proverbs. He is a part of all that he has met, and as action and reaction are equal and opposite, all that he has met becomes a part of him.

When a proverb has gained a sure place in our language, and strikes most observers of a different race and civilization, there is a difficulty about transporting it bodily. If it be eastern it will have a reference that will not, for instance, appeal to westerners. What then happens is that it is localized. It is treated in the very way that names are altered in a good story to give it local color. In this way an eastern proverb about a camel becomes a western one about a horse, and so on.

TRICKS OF TRADES.

Natural Explanation of an Unusual Way of Treating a Ladylike Shopper.

"Here, you get out of this! Don't let me catch you in this store again!" A little feminine shriek followed this rough salutation. I turned, relates a New York Herald personal pronoun, and beheld a beautiful and fashionably dressed young lady in the clutches of a tailor made man. He had torn open a little bundle which he had just received from the package desk, and forced back her money into her hand, and with considerable roughness was hurrying her to the door. The face of the young woman was a picture. She looked like an angry queen. Her eyes were half aflame and half drowned in tears. Her magnificent teeth showed through the reddest kind of lips, and her clear complexion was like marble touched with the fine scarlet of flowers.

I was tempted to interfere, but having heard tales of kleptomania and other strange things in these great bazaars, and knowing the man besides to be a gentlemanly floor walker—for this drama was taking place in one of the most fashionable stores in the city—I withheld my hand.

"Do I know that lady?" said the floor walker, with a laugh. "I should say I do! She is a very grand lady, indeed. My dear sir, she is one of the tricks of the trade. That bewitching lady in Paris made gown and imported bonnet is a salesgirl in the store of our enterprising neighbor on the next block. She gets eleven dollars a week. She came down here disguised as a customer, bought a dozen handkerchiefs as a blind, and proceeded to price a number of our goods in which our enterprising neighbor suspects we are underselling him. This is so as to give him a tip how to mark his goods. In short, she is a spy, and as we are not permitted to hang spies in this warfare of trade all we can do is to escort them to the picket lines and let them go. Now that this young lady has been discovered her occupation in this particular line of usefulness is gone; but our neighbor will have another rigged up in less than no time. Eternal vigilance is the price of underselling."

"But do all the big stores keep these spies, as you call them?" I asked.

"Well," said the ungalant floor walker, with a sly wink and smile, "they all of them do but ourselves."

Stole His Thunder.
A western justice of the peace, who was more noted for severity than knowledge of law, was very much annoyed one day by an attorney who was in the habit of parading his legal lore and making the justice appear at a disadvantage. At last the justice was enraged, and he shouted: "Be quiet, sir, or I will commit you." The lawyer seized the book of printed form, which was the sole reliance of the justice in making out his commitments, and as he walked out of court he shouted derisively to the justice: "Now, I defy you to commit me."

I was about to take him to Cincinnati for an operation, expecting his leg would have to be taken off, and began giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla in order to get up his strength. The medicine woke up his appetite, and soon pieces of bone were discharged from the sore. We continued with Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it seemed to be doing him so much good, and the discharge from the sore decreased, the swelling went down, the leg straightened out, and in a few months he had perfect use of his leg. He is now apparently as well as ever." JOHN L. MCMURRAY, Notary Public, Ravenswood, W. Va.

A Cattle Sale.

Dr. W. H. Patterson Saturday sold 501 head of large, fat steers to Louis Dean who will ship them to Omaha in a day or two. The price paid was definitely learned, but the reporter surmises that the cattle brought about 6 1/2 cents per pound.

Piles Can Be Cured.

Richard Bennett, Westfield, N. Y., writes: "For thirty-two years I suffered from piles, both internal and external, with all their attendant agonies, and like many others suffered from hemorrhoids. All those thirty-two years I had to keep myself to pay doctors and druggists for stuff that was doing me little or no good. Finally I was urged by one who had had the same complaint, but had been cured by Brandreth's pills, to try his cure. I did so, and began to improve, and for the past two years I have been free of all inconvenience from that terrible ailment."

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtin, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. She bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles, found herself sound and well, now does her own housework and is as well as she ever was—Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at Wm. F. Pinner's Drug Store, large bottles 50c. and $1.00.

A Sure Cure for Piles.

Happy Mothers.

Wm. Timmons, Postmaster of Idaville, Ind., writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for that had feeling arising from Kidney and Liver trouble." John Leslie, farmer and stockman of same place, says: "I find Electric Bitters to be the best Liver and Kidney medicine, made me feel like a new man." J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant, same town, says: "Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strength, good appetite and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only $1.00 a bottle at Wm. F. Pinner's Drug Store."

BUYING BEEF.

A Shrewd Buyer and a Keen Seller Play Fast and Loose Over a Trade.

A Portland beef buyer named L. May has been in Reno for a few days trying to buy cattle for that market. He is one of a race noted for their thrift, shrewdness and economy and whose dialect is as broad and thick as the sausage, for which they are celebrated. He carries his overcoat on his arm, always, and has the air of a traveler that has just stepped off a train to see a friend and has important business elsewhere that must not be neglected. He is ready to avail himself of any opportunity to buy up any little bunch of cattle if he can handle them without loss, in other words, get them cheap. But he never has time to talk much about it, in fact important matters elsewhere will not permit him to miss the next train, and unless the cattle are an extra fine lot he never even has time to look at them. Overcoat on arm and watching for an incoming train, he was trying to trade Louis Dean out of a few carloads on Sunday, and a GAZETTE reporter overheard the following dialogue:

May—"Well I told you Louis, I don't want dem cattle, but ov you put dem in der corral and let dem stan twenty-four hours, I vey dem and den gif you seven cents der pound."

Dean—"Oh no, I don't want to talk to you any further. I told you what I would do in the start. Drive 'em in der corral and weigh 'em at once, for seven cents."

May looking out of the door for the train and starting out as though to catch it, but hesitating before starting on a run, to say: "Well, I don't want dem cattle, but I told you vat I do. You drove dem cattle in dot corral, un don feed nor vater for twelve hours un I gif you seven cent."

Dean turning and walking away as if he was tired, "Oh no, that settles it. I told you what I'd do and that's all there is to it."

REMEMBER MAY-DAY.

A Novel Treat in Store For All in the Revival of May-Day Festivities.

May-day in Reno this year will be a most pleasant reminder of a custom, which for some unexplained reason, has more or less lapsed in the extreme west. A May-pole dance with all its concomitants of youth, beauty, and pure filly of movement and expression, is something that few of our younger people have ever seen. The May-queen, Knights, Pages, lady attendants, pole-winders and dancers, all form a pleasing and brilliant spectacle, which is to be fully presented at the Pavilion on the evening of May-day. A few songs and humorous recitations will precede this spectacle, and a social dance for all will follow it. The entertainment alone would be well worth the price of admission—50 cents—but with the dance that is to follow and with the music provided, the admission fee is certainly very reasonable. Then, too, the object sought—to provide books of song and other necessary apparatus for the High School will no doubt be considered by all our people. To help the public schools in anything and everything that is necessary, is helping ourselves and our best interests. The Pavilion ought to be crowded on May-day night.

DEAD MAN FOUND.

Killed by a Passing Train on the Cuba Bridge.

This morning the body of a dead man was found midway over the bridge at Cuba station. The body was jammed in between the rail-road bridge ties, and appearances indicated that he was caught and tried to escape by dropping down through the ties. The open space, being only seven inches wide, was too narrow, and the break beam struck him as the train passed over him. The body was removed with some difficulty, and only one bruise was found and that on the top of the skull, which probably caused his death.

He was evidently a G. A. R. man, as his discharge papers were found upon him, and also a letter of recent date from Washington. The letters and papers indicated that his name was Louis McGincher. He was apparently about 60 years of age, of slight build and wearing gray beard and mustache. The Coroner at Truckee was notified and was expected to remove the body this afternoon.

A New Paint Shop.

See Geo. M. Enslin's ad. in another column of to-day's GAZETTE. Mr. Enslin is undoubtedly the best painter in his line that ever did business in Reno. His work speaks for itself, and when the addition is finished that is being built to the shop, he will have one of the best carriage paint shops on the coast. It pays to have work done by first-class mechanics.

Far Fetched.

The Salt Lake Tribune of Saturday has the following item which seems far-fetched, some 500 or 600 miles at least. It says:

A hot wind blew up stiff from the Gulf of California yesterday, filling the air with alkali dust all day. There was a general cry for sprinklers.

WADSWORTH NOTES.

The Knights of Pythias Organize a Section of the Endowment Bank.

WADSWORTH, April 26, 1914. Although Pyramid Lodge No. 19, Knights of Pythias, was organized as late as December 12, 1909, several Knights met in Castle Hall last evening with the proper authority and a charter, consisting of the following Knights as charter members, to organize a section of the Endowment Bank: Charles D. Horan, Horace M. Johnson, Thomas F. Moran, Thomas J. Yeargin, Harner L. Huston, Enoch A. Jackman, Elithu H. Proctor, George A. Macpherson, John F. George, L. W. Young, James Poole and Arthur I. York. Charles D. Horan, having been appointed as instituting officer, presided for the term. Horace M. Johnson was elected President, T. F. Moran, Vice-President, and George A. Macpherson, Secretary. There are several more members talking of joining, and it will only be a short time when the majority of our members will join Section No. 1312 of this great insurance rank. Besides the Endowment Bank there are over 30 names down for the organizing of a Uniform Rank, which will be started as soon as possible. The Lodge, in general, is in a very flourishing condition. It is reported that Wm. Donaldson, the joint proprietor of Nevada House, is quite sick.

Johnnie Lyell is again on the street after a very severe illness. He is very pale, but will, we hope, be going to work again soon. Miss Maggie Donelin is reported very sick of la grippe. Miss Cecil McEvin is well again, after an attack of pneumonia. The town is beginning to loom up under a new coat of paint, which will improve the looks of things.

A CUTTING SCRAPE.

John Ramsey Seriously Wounded by Thompson With a Pocket Knife.

Last evening about seven o'clock a row occurred at Verdi in which one of the parties received a dangerous and possibly fatal wound. The facts as gathered by the GAZETTE are substantially as follows:

Two men engaged in a fight and a young man by the name of John Ramsey attempted to separate them. This was objected to by D. Thompson and a struggle ensued in which Thompson, being a powerful man, threw Ramsey. Ramsey being powerless to defend himself in any other way, drew a short bladed pocket knife and struck his opponent several times in the left side and shoulder. One of the wounds penetrated the chest between the sixth and seventh ribs, wounding the lung. Thompson was at once removed to his residence and Dr. Dawson telegraphed for. The doctor found his patient suffering greatly from pain and loss of blood. The wound is necessarily a serious one, as there is always in such cases great danger from inflammation and blood poisoning. The other wounds are not serious, being all flesh wounds. It is understood that Ramsey will be arrested to-day. The affair is an unfortunate one as both parties are well and favorably known in the community. Thompson is a man of considerable property and has an estimable wife who is deeply distressed over the affair. Ramsey is unmarried but has parents, brothers and sisters living at Verdi, all of whom are highly respected. Neither of the men were under the influence of liquor and both have the reputation of being peaceable and good citizens.

"SHENANDOAH."

The Company Greeted by a Full House Saturday Night.

The great war drama Shenandoah was presented to a Reno audience Saturday night and was greeted by a packed house. The first scene is laid in Charleston harbor April 12, 1861, and represents the firing on old Fort Sumter by the rebels on that morning and some of the conflict of emotions and patriotism of men and women who were loyal and disloyal to the old flag. The second act represents the Shenandoah Valley and the famous battle of Cedar Creek, with Sheridan "but twenty miles away." The scene of the conflict is particularly strong and made many an old soldier's blood circulate with renewed vigor. The signal lights from General Longstreet on Three Top mountain intercepted by our own signal officers who had received a key thereto was particularly fine. The last act is laid in Washington at the close of the war, when all, or nearly all of the characters portrayed find solace in wedded bliss. Owing to the small stage the play was not as well mounted here as in Virginia and Carson and the troupe did not have the opportunity of displaying much of the magnificent scenery that they have. The company is a very strong one and delighted the vast throng that assembled to witness the presentation of Shenandoah.

Outlawed Accounts.

There are $40,000 of old, outlawed accounts on the books of the State Prison for boots and shoes and stone, which should have been collected years ago, or never have been collected. Governor Colcord has succeeded in capturing one of the accounts amounting to over $200. The State's debtor happened to be in Carson a few days ago with a four-horse team, when the Governor put an attachment on the rig and won his case in the Justice Court, and the State is winner a good pair of horses by the Governor's watchfulness.

Mr. Gifford, the Mason valley sheep man, is going to revolutionize methods of irrigation in the valley. He proposes to pump water with an automatic gasoline engine at a less expense than it would be to construct ditches and dams and keep them in repair.
